It is interesting to reflect on what will be the school in the future.

I can't tell that modern at all it isn't pleasant to me.

And nevertheless it seems to me, once, in many decades or even centuries, study at school will change to unrecognizability. It is difficult to present what will be our future in general.

Therefore I want to dream of what will be the school when the person will open for himself unknown today science secrets.

In the future pupils will spend not enough time in classes behind studying of information on books.

And will be so:
they will study biology outdoors in the woods, fields.

Each species of plants or animals can be seen alive, and the theoretical material about them will speak in parallel.

Foreign languages will be studied in the countries where on them speak. School students with the teacher will take out, for example, to England for half a year, and they in the course of communication with British will quickly master language.

It would be healthy if in this way studied also geography! If to present that superfast transport is already invented, even for one lesson it would be possible to visit a couple of continents.

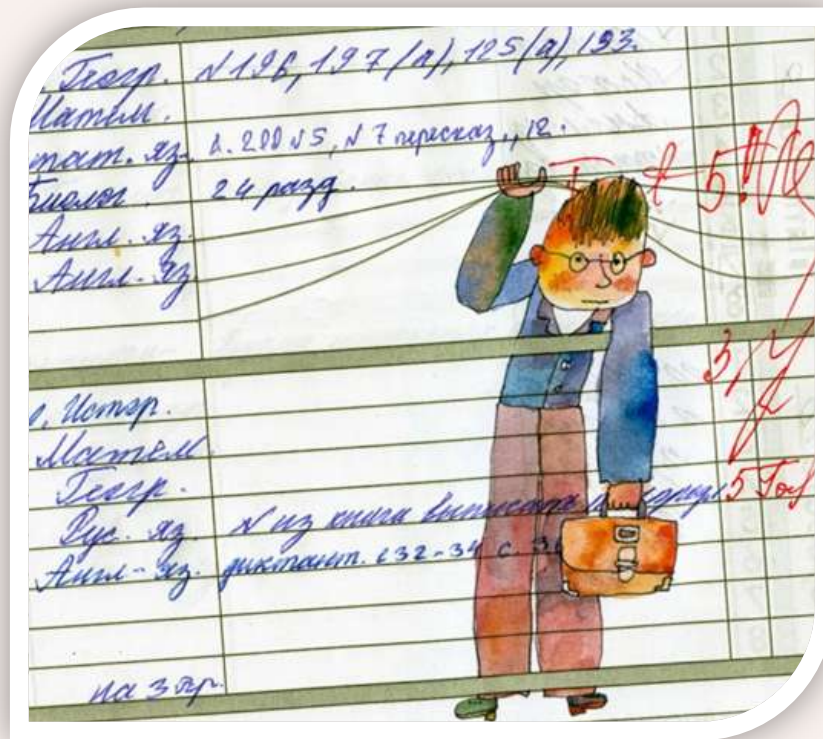

And still, in school of the future can choose the training direction from the fifth class.

If you are given languages, literature, go in the humanitarian direction, you understand mathematics and physics – on mathematical and so on. It will help school students to learn the tendencies and to choose suitable future profession.

I think, estimates in school of the future won't be.

Because school students will learn not simply a material and to solve the same problems, and to carry out scientific and creative tasks, and then at special conferences to share results with the others.

Teachers will help them with it, there will be many individual occupations.

I think, such school will be pleasant to all.
In it will be interesting to study, it will be necessary to force to come nobody. None of pupils won't want to skip classes.

I hope that the real school of the future will be even better, than I imagine.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR ATTENTION!
