My mum volunteers for Help the Aged on Saturdays. She looks after elderly people at the local nursing home. Something my Mum asks me to help her. I help by getting the patients the things they need or by reading books to them. It's great when I walk in the room and they smile! Supporting elderly people is also helping yourself. You learn about people's feelings and needs, and become a more caring person. We'll be old some day and will need people to care for us. Showing sympathy to other people is really good. I enjoy doing something that helps others. I don't get money. But I feel good when I know that I make a difference.
